Cheung Hon Fei
Lung Cancer

I have suffered from diabetes for over 10 years, all the while taking medication for this problem. In the middle of August this year, I had a terrible cough where I started to cough up blood. I was rushed into hospital and diagnosed with lung cancer at the beginning of September. They told me I was only at stage 1 of lung cancer, so I wasn't too worried. However, I was afraid of how my family would react. I didn't want them to worry about me. So I decided to find a solution to my problems and solve them once and for all.

Fortunately, I had a childhood friend of mine who introduced me to a holistic healing method. I was a little apprehensive about detoxing at first, but I decided to go ahead with it. I stopped taking my diabetic medication, which I've never done in the past 10 years!

The doctors told me that my cancer tumor was too large to operate on. They suggested chemotherapy and radiotherapy to kill the cancer cells, in fear of them spreading to others parts of my body. Because I was afraid of the side effects and the possibility of my cancer mutating, I decided not to follow their advice. Instead, I decided to detox.

After following OV's Full Detox program, I went back to the clinic to get a health checkup. To my surprise, my cancer tumor had shrink significantly! It went from the size of a pack of cigarettes, to the size of a small battery. Organic Vision's products are truly miraculous!

THIRD QUARTER AWARDS NIGHT

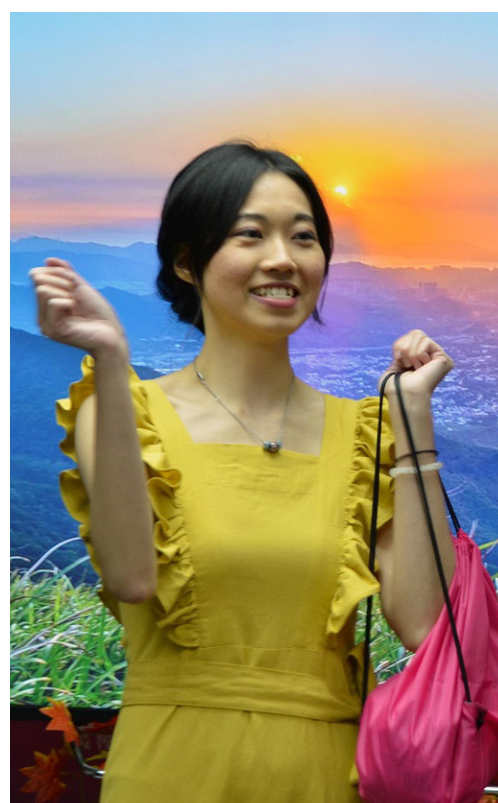

The 3rd annual quarterly awards evening was held on October 29th. The dress theme of the evening was Autumn/Fall.

The evening began with a play on stage by a few of our distributors, who enacted a lively and motivating sketch, encouraging other business builders to keep on working hard in making their dreams come true!

We enjoyed 2 moving experiences shared by some of our consumers, who shared with the audience how they came to know about Organic Vision and our detox program. They recounted their personal stories on how they overcame illnesses and diseases with the Full Detox Program, including how one of them even reversed their cancer growth!

An incredible touching story indeed. We were certain there wasn't a dry eye in the audience as we all saw the incredible healing power of detoxing.
